CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER APPOINTMENT

Navigator Resources Limited (ASX: NAV) is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr Trevor Cook as Chief Operations Officer with effect from 24 April. Mr Cook has extensive hands-on experience in all facets of surface mining and management and will play an integral role in managing Navigator's feasibility studies currently in progress at the Leonora gold project.

Mr Cook has managed projects throughout Australia and has 26 years exposure to a broad range of commodities, gold, nickel, tantalum, mineral sands, iron ore, coal, manganese, chromite and diamonds. Trevor began his career with Bell Basic Industries in the quarrying division and has subsequently held positions with Civils Australia, Ashton Gold, MacMahon Contracting and more recently as Mining Operations Manager for BGC Contracting, General Manager Operations for Consolidated Minerals Ltd, and Chief Operating Officer for View Resources Ltd. Mr Cook has a diploma in surface mining and an EMBA (Executive Masters in Business Administration).

Mr Cook will be supported by consulting mining engineer, Mr Steve O'Grady of Interline Engineering Consultants. Mr O'Grady has been involved with the Leonora project for over a year and has 23 years experience in surface/underground mining and design, open pit optimizations and feasibility studies. Mr O'Grady has previously held positions with Global Mining Services, Byrnecut Mining, Dominion Mining, Readymix and Pasminco.

Navigator's feasibility studies commenced in early 2008 with metallurgical, geotechnical, environmental, groundwater assessments by several independent consulting groups well underway.

Subject to ongoing feasibility analysis, Navigator is targeting a long life 100,000 oz pa production profile at Leonora with initial production from three large open pits (Tonto, Mertondale South and Cardinia), and ancillary production from ten smaller satellite open pits, later stage underground development, and heap leaching of low grade mineralization.

Navigator is very pleased to have attracted someone with Trevor's experience and skill set to oversee the further advancement of the Leonora project. His appointment is an important milestone in the ongoing development of the Leonora project and the Company.
